AMEGY BANK-CENTRAL TEXAS ANNOUNCES PERRIN PROJECTS, MULTI-DISCIPLINARY DESIGN STUDIO BEHIND NEW DOWNTOWN DIGS

SAN ANTONIO (Nov. 18, 2024) — Amegy Bank hired the Houston-based, woman-owned design studio, Perrin Projects, for the renovation, construction and phasing of Amegy Bank–Central Texas’ 40,000-square-foot headquarter relocation, beginning today with demolition procedures at 300 Convent, San Antonio, TX 78205.

Constructed in 1983, the 21st and 22nd floors in the prestigious 28-story, Class A office building set an ideal canvas for Perrin Projects’ soft and neutral design palette, peppered with unconventional, thoughtful details woven throughout the textures of the rugs, art selections and furniture.

“This balance of form and function is synonymous with Amegy’s dedication to building relationships that are as practical as they are meaningful,” said Kristen Perrin, founder of Perrin Projects. “It’s gratifying to create a space for Amegy, where both work and community will undoubtedly thrive.”

With expansive floor-to-ceiling windows and open, light-filled spaces, the design invites natural light to play a key role in shaping the atmosphere. The interconnecting stair between floors is a central artery of the office, designed to inspire a natural flow between floors, encouraging collaboration while maintaining quiet spaces for concentrated work.

“Perrin Projects’ stellar reputation and specializations in art procurement, furniture specification and intuitive design made their appointment as ‘designer’ of Amegy’s new Central Texas home a no-brainer,” said David McGee, Amegy Bank-Central Texas CEO. “We are grateful for Kristen and her team’s attention to detail in crafting such a dynamic environment that will foster collaboration and connection, a reflection of what Amegy, our bankers and the San Antonio community deserve.”

Designed by Houston-based MG Architects, Amegy Bank will also open a new downtown banking center on the first floor of 300 Convent. It is set to open around Summer 2025, when headquarter office employees plan to take residency of the new space, managed by Patrinely.
